Dear Friends:

It gives me great pleasure to welcome everyone to the 45th annual Artexpo New York at Pier 36.

I am immensely proud to lead a city renowned as a global capital of the arts, boasting a dynamic creative community unlike any other. The power of the arts crosses cultures and borders, uniting people of all backgrounds, and fostering strong ties throughout our global community. My Administration is determined to strengthen our vital creative community and inspire diverse New Yorkers through the arts. Artexpo New York has been a crucial ally in this mission. By promoting a wide array of vibrant works from local, national, and international galleries, as well as independent artists and photographers, Artexpo New York elevates its community and demonstrates a commitment to make inspirational art accessible to all. As you gather for this year's expo, the first since 2019, I applaud Artexpo New York's organizers and contributors for all they do to enhance the boundless creativity that drives our great city forward, building a brighter future for all.

On behalf of the City of New York, I extend a warm welcome to all visitors to the five boroughs, as well as my best wishes for a memorable expo and continued success.

Sincerely,
